

The Rheinische Friedrich-Wilhelms University of Bonn is looking for a new position to be filled starting October 1, 2024, for a period of four years:

Senior Lecturer (“Akademische*r Oberrätin*Oberrat) for North American Studies | Economics

The transdisciplinary North American Studies program at the Institute of English, American and Celtic Studies at the University of Bonn is dedicated to teaching and research about the USA and Canada as cultural, political and economic systems. The program offers a Masters in North American Studies, cooperates with other disciplines in the BA English Studies, and regularly organizes extracurricular events such as a lecture series, panel discussions, and symposia.

You bring:

- A university degree with a doctorate and further publications (equivalent to German “Habilitation”) in economics or a related discipline,
- Teaching experience in the fundamentals of micro- and macroeconomics as well as the ability to broadly cover various areas of economics in teaching,
- Interest in the economic history and economic policy of North America and in current transdisciplinary research questions and methodological discussions,
- Experience in transdisciplinary teaching and research collaborations,
- Very good written and spoken English skills (the language of instruction for the degree program is English),
- International collaborative networks.

Your tasks:

- University teaching with a focus on fundamentals and methods of economics within the scope of 7 SWS,
- Examination procedures in all the above-mentioned degree programs,
- Research activities,
- Cooperation in transdisciplinary projects of the North American Studies program.

We offer:

- Sufficient time for your own research,
- Small, highly motivated study groups,
- A connection to the economic history research group at the Institute of History,
- An exciting, challenging, team-oriented position in teaching, research, and scientific management,
- If the requirements are met, salary according to salary grade A 14 BBesO.

Women are given preferential consideration in accordance with the State Equal Opportunities Act (Landesgleichstellungsgesetz) if they have the same qualifications. Severely disabled persons will be given preference if equally qualified.

Interested candidates are requested to send the usual application documents by May 17th, 2024 to the directors of the North American Studies Program (Prof. Dr. Sabine N. Meyer, Prof. Dr. Sabine Sielke), Institute of English, American and Celtic Studies, University of Bonn, Rabinstr. 8, 53111 Bonn.
